Right to Life Australia is the most prominent prolife group in Australia.

- The media often seeks comments from Right to Life Australia on the issues of abortion, euthanasia and embryo abuse.
- Right to Life Australia's existence and activity helps to keep the lack of respect for human life that abounds today at the forefront of the minds of Australians.
- Right to Life Australia keeps in regular contact with its members and financial supporters by mail-outs of its Right to Life News and additional legislative alerts.
- Right to Life Australia has lobbied legislators in all state and territory legislatures and in the federal parliament over many years on the life issues, in particular when legislation relating to these matters is up for debate.
- Right to Life Australia has made many oral and written submissions to parliamentary inquiries over the years concerning life issues.
